ADMITS HE TOOK MONEY

Thos. Appleton, Former Lake Forest Assessor, Makes That Confession

SAYS "HE NEEDED MONEY"

The Money in Question was an Appropriation Voted by the Supervisors to the Lake Bluff Orphanage in 1906

The Tribune of Friday says. Thomas Appleton of Lake Forest, formerly a member of the Board of Assessors of Lake County, admitted that he had appropriated to his own use $500 voted by the Board of Assessors of the county to the Lake Bluff orphanage in 1906. His explanation was "that he needed the money."

"I received the voucher for $500 from the county clerk of the county in 1906 and I also had the voucher cashed," Mr. Appleton told a reporter for the Tribune. "I was supervisor in this district then and as a matter of fact the money was paid over to me. No, I did not pay the money over to the orphanage and my only reason was the fact that my finances were low at the time. I always intended to pay the debt and last fall I paid $250."

"I will pay the balance soon, for I think I shall have the money shortly. I have some 10 acres of land near here from the sale of which I can probably raise the money shortly. I know it was wrong to keep the money intended for the orphans, but I needed the money, so I used it to live on."

An audit of the county books has been called for by the Board of Assessors.

Appleton was the unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Lake Forest at the last election and when asked if he had paid the money after he had announced his candidacy he replied he had not. "I paid the $250 last fall before I was a candidate for mayor," he said, "and my candidacy was not any incentive for the payment."

Appleton is about 55 years old and he has been a resident of the suburb during the last 20 years and was for four years supervisor.

Lucy J. Judson, superintendent of the Lake Bluff orphanage, who with her little band of assistants work without remuneration save their keep, told a similar story to that given out by Appleton.

"The supervisors made an appropriation of $500 for the orphanage in 1906," Miss Judson said. "Appleton told me of the appropriation, but said he could not pay the money till after the taxes were collected. In 1907 there was another appropriation of the same amount and then Appleton paid us $500."

"This continued and we received the same appropriation each successive year till last year, when the appropriation was increased to $1,000. I then asked about the appropriation for the year before, but was shown voucher that the payment was made each successive year."

"One voucher showed a payment of $500 in 1906. I asked Appleton and he admitted the receipt of the money and told he would pay it. He has since paid $250. I don't care to say as yet what action I shall take to collect the balance of the $500 appropriation in 1906. I have consulted an attorney, but cannot say more at present."

"We have 135 orphans here at present supported by charities. The women working with me and myself do not receive any salary. We are Methodist deaconesses and our work is one of charity."

A Woman's Great Idea

is how to make herself attractive. But without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But electric bitters always prove a god-send to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion good health. Try them, 60c. at J. H. Swans.

RESULT OF TEST VOTE

Antioch Farmers not in Favor of Tuberculin Testing of Cattle

On account of a report to the effect that the farmers of the vicinity of Antioch and adjoining towns, were heartily in favor of the tuberculin test, having gained a wide circulation, The News three weeks ago issued a coupon and invited each farmer to express his opinion in regard to the matter, by voting "yes" or "no" on the question "Are you in favor of the tuberculin test?"

In response to this invitation farmers who ship milk from Antioch, Lake Villa, Ingleside, Wadsworth and Salem took the opportunity to speak. So far one hundred and two votes have been turned in and when looked over were found to stand one hundred and one against and one in favor of the test. Of the total number of votes turned in only one has as yet been received from the state of Wisconsin.

The object of conducting this vote is to get the direct opinion of the producer and while the votes themselves remain on file in this office and the names are confidentially held, the result of the vote is being sent to the chairman of the joint investigating committee to go on record among their several thousand pages of evidence both for and against the proposition which they are gathering in an effort to secure the enactment of a law that would be fair and just, one that would at the same time that it was providing a pure milk supply to the consumer, offer the necessary protection to the producer.

AGED RESIDENT DIES FOLLOWING PROLONGED ILLNESS

On Sunday of this week occurred the death of one of Antioch's best known and most highly respected residents, Mrs. John Porter, Sr., who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. Nelson, with whom she had resided for many years, after a prolonged illness caused by feebleness of age.

Malinda Garwood was born in Crawford county, Pa., April 27, 1825, and died at her home in Antioch June 5, 1910, at the age of 85 years, 1 month and 8 days.

On September 4, 1845, she was united in marriage to John Porter, Sr., who preceded her five years ago. In 1846 they moved to Avon, Ill., later moving to Antioch.

From this union seven children were born, only two of whom survive her, Mrs. D. Nelson and John J. Porter, both of Antioch. Besides these she leaves to mourn their loss two sisters, Mrs. S. H. Bullock of Waukegan, and Mrs. Mary Drake of Woodriver, Neb., four grandchildren, two great grandchildren and many other relatives and friends.

In her early girlhood she united with the Presbyterian church and has ever been a faithful follower of Christ.

The funeral services were held at the Nelson home Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. The remains were interred in the Avon Center cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our most sincere thanks to the many friends who kindly assisted us by their help and sympathy during the illness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Malinda Porter. Also to those who furnished flowers and to the singers.

A Husband's Pledge

A wealthy middle-aged divorcee who married a good-looking and companionable young fellow, penniless himself, is said to have exacted from him, as part of the marriage contract, the pledge that he would spend every evening of his life with her. They were inveterate theatergoers until his death, which seems to corroborate the curious story. Many women would like to have the same power of keeping their husbands at home.—New York Press.

Dyspepsia.

Man's normal appetites and passions, if used temperately, make his earth heaven, but if abused or polluted may or can make it living hell. Same way about foods, particularly meats. If meat is right in the first place, and then is cooked right, it is all right all together, as delicious as incense of the gods. But if not right to start with or badly cooked, it becomes the most disgusting deformity and breeder of dyspepsia that comes upon the table.—Boston Pilot.

KENOSHA WOMAN FINED

Mrs. C. W. Allen Pays Fine of $100 in New York for Smuggling

NO MAN TO ADVISE, IS PLEA

Attorney for Defendants Calls Attention to Helplessness of Party Composed of Four Women

Mrs. Charles W. Allen of Kenosha, wife of the senior member of the firm of C. N. Allen Sons company and a director in the Central Leather company, appeared Wednesday before Justice Holt in the United States Circuit and pleaded guilty to an indictment charging her with having smuggled into the country when she arrived at New York last Friday on the Lusitania jewelry and wearing apparel worth about $5,000. Mrs. Allen was fined $100.

Mrs. Allen's plea was entered by her counsel, W. Wickham Smith. He said his client was acting as chaperon for a party including her daughter, Gertrude, the latter's school friend, Miss Ethel Sumner, and Mrs. D. C. Cregier of Chicago, and that they had been abroad five months. During that time, he explained, they had purchased numerous articles of jewelry and wearing apparel.

When the time came to make out the declaration, Mr. Smith said, they had forgotten the prices of many of the things, and none of the circulars on the lines to assist passengers in making their declarations was presented to any one in the party.

Counsel added that Mrs. Allen never had been abroad before and that there was no man in the party to advise them. On her arrival here, Mr. Smith said, Mrs. Allen had given the keys of her trunk to the customs men, but his client and the others in the party were wearing the jewelry to insure its safety. Mr. Smith declared that there was no attempt at concealment. He asked for leniency, saying that Mrs. Allen had been punished sufficiently by the publicity, exposure and mortification.

Assistant United States District Attorney Dorr said that Mrs. Allen had admitted that she did not intend to pay duty on the jewelry and declared that the fact that she made a declaration and failed to include the articles, besides having previously sent over the jewelry boxes by mail would tend to show that her act was premeditated while the party was on the other side of the Atlantic.

After hearing counsel Judge Holt imposed the fine, which was paid.

It is understood that Mrs. Allen will recover the property imported in violation of the customs laws by paying the home value, which includes the foreign cost and 50 per cent duty.

RUN DOWN BY TRAIN AND KILLED

Monday night a St. Paul train struck and instantly killed a boxmaker by the name of Welch at Rondout and Monday afternoon a coroner's jury at Libertyville took the matter up in detail.

The train is said to have been the St. Paul Pioneer Limited. There was one train going north and one south at the time Welch was struck and the victim was on the private right of way of the company.

He was hurled some feet into the air by the pilot of the engine. Every bone in his body was broken and his head had a yawning hole in it. On his body was found a union card in the boxmakers' union and Coroner Taylor at once telephoned to the Chicago police to try to locate some of his friends or information about him. He is about 40 years old.

SECOND OFFICIAL OUSTED

Because He Sought to Help Erring Postmaster Deputy is Summarily Retired

ACTION STIRS NORTH SHORE

Story of How Highwood Postmaster was Found Short in Accounts and how Deputy Got Into Trouble Trying to Help Him

The fact that Postmaster W. E. Cummings of Highwood was recently found to be $250 short in his accounts after he had been asked to retire from the position and his subsequent effort to make good to the postal department in order to protect himself, has resulted in trouble being brought upon his friends, namely, Postmaster Fletcher of Highland Park and his assistant, Deputy King.

The outcome of the matter so far has been that King Monday received notice to retire from the position at once because he had seen fit to borrow $250 from the Highland Park office just long enough to allow Cummings to hand over the money to make up his deficit, Postmaster Fletcher making amount good in his own office an hour or so after the deputy forwarded the money.

The fact is that, when Cummings appealed to Fletcher for aid, Fletcher was not there but his deputy, King, knew he (Fletcher) was a friend of Cummings and that he would sanction a loan out of his personal account to help his old friend Cummings out of the trouble. So King took the $250 from the Highland Park office, loaned it to Cummings who handed it over to the inspectors at Highwood but they refused it. Then, as soon as Fletcher reached his office, King told him what he had done, Fletcher told him it was all right and at once put back $250 of his personal money into the Highland Park office cash box.

The inspectors at Highwood, seeing that Cummings got the shortage fund so quickly, investigated, found that he procured it from the Highland Park office and confronted Fletcher with it. He did not wish to tell the facts to implicate King but King at once admitted he had done it, showing he knew Mr. Fletcher would make good from his personal account.

That did not satisfy the inspectors who reported to the higher officials and they sent word to King Monday to quit at once.

The rules of the postal department are so precise that it is said if a postmaster is short in the stamp account and over in the money order department, he has no right to transfer from one to the other—they must come out right themselves or he is liable.

Cummings' case is not yet settled. He was taken before the court in Chicago Monday and the case continued. In the meantime his friends are working hard to save him but fear is held that the old official will be sent to prison because of his neglect in handling the money of his office. The North Shore is stirred as it has not been stirred before in years.

FLOWER CARPETS IN SPAIN

Religious Festival That Calls Forth Most Remarkable Floral Displays

Once a year rich Spaniards have a real "flower-strewn way" prepared for them. That is when the Corpus Christi festival is held and beautiful flower carpets are laid in the streets of Villa Orland, Tenerife.

All the richest produce of the fertile gardens of the island is brought into use in weaving the most wonderful floor coverings in the world.

Often the patterns are elaborate, especially those designed for old Spanish families, who place them in the street before their houses, and thus gain local estimation according to the value of their floral display.

Not only are the ordinary blooms known to gardeners used to make the design of carpets, but also some rare flowers and grasses growing only in the Canary Islands. The slopes of the peak of Teneriffe, bearing layers of lava from the now dormant volcano, are rich in these unusual forms of floral beauty.

ARREST SIX BOY ROBBERS

St. Paul Detectives Break up Bad Gang of Youthful Box Car Pilferers

Monday afternoon Justice Welch of Waukegan held six Milwaukee boys to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 each on a charge of rifling the St. Paul railroad freight cars between Milwaukee and Rondout, Lake county.

The names given were as follows, the boys ranging from 15 to 17 years: Frank Inda, Jas. Chincelenki, Jas. Walczak, Jas. Ziolkowski, Casimir Giesicki, John Codus.

The boys were arrested Saturday at Rondout and Wadsworth and the arrests ended a month's pilfering which the detectives declare was the worst they have encountered in years. It had extended over a period of a month.

The boys, according to the detectives, were following out a carefully planned system. They would board freight trains in Milwaukee and ride to Wadsworth or Rondout. On the trip down, they would take out boxes of shoes, etc., and, boarding an empty freight car on a train returning to Milwaukee, would cart the boxes back to that city where they are charged with selling them.

The detectives have been on the job for some weeks but not until Saturday were they able to round up the gang which, they declare has been the worst they have had to contend with in a long time.

The boys are all foreigners and the detectives declare they have given the Milwaukee police much trouble in other lines hence the outlook for them is very bad.

LOOKS AS IF LAKE COUNTY WILL GET TAX

The city of Lake Forest won an important point Tuesday in its fight to collect taxes from its wealthy residents who live there part of the time and who have homes elsewhere, because of which, they seek evasion of personal property taxes at both places.

Recently the city of Lake Forest, through Attorney D. H. Jackson, started suit to collect taxes on $75,000 personal property from George H. Holt. He claimed he lived in Lake Forest only summers, that his home was in California.

Holt obtained an injunction in circuit court restraining Lake Forest from collecting the tax and it was that bill which Judge Robert Wright Tuesday dismissed. In arguing on the injunction, Lake Forest showed that Holt was in Lake Forest much of the time while he held he was in other places. By the court's ruling, the case stands where it was and Lake Forest will proceed with the suit to collect the taxes.

The judge dismissed the suit for want of equity and on grounds that Holt has a complete remedy at law. As to the matter of residence the judge felt that a jury should at all events, decide this point.

The case is important because of the precedent it establishes in regards to their wealthy men who seek to evade taxes in Lake County by claiming residence some other place although it is generally felt they live much of the year in Lake Forest.

SEX EVEN IN BREAD MOLDS

Scientific Discovery That Will Tend to Astonish the Unthinking Layman.

Among the many extraordinary theories introduced by recent microscopic studies is that of sex in bread molds. After years of patient research it is announced that a distinguished scientist has found that these minute fungi, the lowest order of plant life, possess the characteristics of plants of the highest type, and have the power of reproducing their kind from two distinct and different races, in addition to giving new life from one. The precise meaning and value to organic evolution of the fact that in such low forms of life as the common molds male and female should be so sharply differentiated as in human beings are far from settled, but the discovery, if it be a discovery, is a most important contribution to the fascinating pursuit of the unknown in nature. Some of the microscopic slides show, it is claimed, groups of fungi which form the product of mated bread molds once separated by thousands of miles. To the unscientific eye they appear as pretty miniature forest jungles.

MORE EVIDENCE DESIRED

Board of Supervisors Asked to Appoint Committee of Milk Producers

A CHANGE IN ATTITUDE

Chicago Health Department Now Concedes Pasteurization the More Important Question in the Milk Supply

In an effort to get at the root of the matter of tuberculin testing of cattle, Edward D. Shurtleff, chairman of the joint investigation committee and his helpers are devoting much time and energy in the gathering of all available evidence both for and against, that is just decision for all concerned, one that is fair to producer, dealer and consumer alike may be arrived at. And as a result of the investigation and the evidence gathered, it is said that the Health department are arriving at a change of opinion and now concede that pasteurization of milk is more important than tuberculin testing of cattle.

In regard to this, Mr. Shurtleff takes the same stand, that all interested parties should have their say, and in pursuit of this plan has caused to be sent to the county clerks, and supervisors of several counties, the following letter, which explains itself.

Dear Sir:

The following gentlemen, Edward D. Shurtleff, chairman; Guy, L. Bush, Frank W. Shepard, John C. McKenzie, Albert J. Olson, Thomas Tippit, Alexander Lane, J. W. Allison, S. C. Pemberton, C. S. Hearn and Geo. L. McConnell, secretary, was appointed a joint committee by the house and senate, upon a resolution introduced by myself, to investigate the subject of the tuberculin testing of cows, the pasteurization of milk and the milk subject generally.

The committee has several thousand pages of evidence, including the scientific end of the subject. It has the evidence of all the noted bacteriologists hospital superintendents and the leading members of the medical profession.

Lately our committee has finished taking the evidence of the local situation here in Chicago, including the evidence of Dr. Evans, Superintendent of the Health department of Chicago, Dr. Kaehler, his assistant, and the other heads of department in this city. This has led, in my judgment, to a change in attitude on the part of the Health Department of the city of Chicago; at least from their evidence upon the witness stand they concede that if all cows were tuberculin tested and the supply of milk derived only from those that passed the test, it would eliminate only about five per cent of the unhealthful germs in milk.

The Department of Health of the City of Chicago is now of the opinion that the pasteurization of milk is absolutely necessary to procure a pure supply of milk in this city, and growing out of the fight in the Chicago city council, over its ordinances, led by Alderman Hey and others, a committee to investigate has been appointed by the Mayor of the city. I know nothing about the makeup of this committee, except that one producer of milk was named at my suggestion, and one other representative, in the city of Chicago, of our committee.

Our Committee appointed by the state is now ready to take up the milk subject from the producers' standpoint and will give practically the balance of its time before the next legislature convenes to taking evidence and studying thoroughly the milk subject from the producer's standpoint. This field is so large and includes so many in numbers that it is a difficult problem to determine how to reach the same economically and practically. I have corresponded with the county clerks of Lake county, McHenry county, Kane county, Boone county, DeKalb county, DuPage county and Will county, and I think Kendall county should be included in the list. I would suggest that the Boards of Supervisors of these various counties, at their next meeting, select in each respective county three practical milk producers of their respective counties, making in all a committee of twenty-four from the eight respective counties, and that this

SYNOPSIS.

Andy McLean, aged and eccentric millionaire miner, is dying and orders his attorney to draw up a will leaving all his property to the son of a stranger from whom he was separated years before and of whose name even he is ignorant. Andy tells the attorney that he was married in his youth, but let his wife after a quarrel in which he struck her. He learned afterward that she and his daughter were dead. The scene shifts to New York, introducing Wilfrid Stennis, who is told his fiancée, Eunice Trevecca, what he would do if he were the possessor of twenty or fifty millions. In the law office of Carboy, Passavant & Cozine, attorneys for the estate of Andy McLean, Roger Hewa reports the result of his search in the east for heirs of McLean. He conceals the fact that a daughter of McLean is alive. Wilfrid sees an advertisement for information concerning Martha McLean or descendants. He recognizes the description as that of his dead mother and decides to answer the advertisement.

"She occasionally spoke of an elder brother somewhere in this country, but she never heard from him, that I can remember, and we always supposed he was killed in the war."

"And his name—surely you have heard her mention his name, Mr. Stennis?"

"Why, certainly. It was Andrew—Andrew McLean, of course!"

The lawyer's indifferent manner had disappeared, and he had leaned forward anxiously in his chair pending this answer, but now he resumed his former position, with as much satisfaction shining in his face as the legal proprieties ever permitted.

"Well, Mr. Stennis, I am warranted in going so far as to say that this interview has been eminently satisfactory up to this point, and I am delighted to have made your acquaintance. I will have those little details to which I alluded looked up, and if you will do me the honor to call here at the same hour this day week I may have some interesting news for you—some exceedingly interesting news, in fact."

"But—but," stammered Wilfrid, "I am not a bit wiser than when I came in! You've pumped me dry, and I should like to know something about the advertisement—what it means—and so would my—my friends."

Mr. Passavant looked at the quivering Wilfrid compassionately and dispassionately over his gold-rimmed glasses. "Your impatience is quite excusable under the circumstances, my dear sir, but until we have in our hands the collateral proofs of which I have spoken, it would be manifestly improper for me to commit myself further. Good-morning!"

"And so," as Wilfrid ruefully told Eunice that evening, "I came away like the king of France, who marched up the hill and down again, and got nothing for my trouble."

Eunice made him tell the story of the interview twice over, and then sat quietly musing, her forehead and eyebrows puckered in a puzzled frown.

"It must be—I am sure of it, Wilfrid," she exclaimed at length. "The advertisement has something to do with that long-lost uncle Andrew of yours!"

"Do you really think so?" said Wilfrid dubiously. "Why, all old Passavant's talk was about mother; he only mentioned uncle Andrew once."

"You silly boy!" the girl exclaimed with pretty petulance, giving him a little push, "that's the very thing that makes me sure!"

From which it may be seen that Eunice Trevecca possessed what has been called the "leaping mind."

So there was nothing for it but to wait the week out with what patience the trio could muster—for Eunice and old Trevecca were equally interested with Wilfrid. The time passed in all sorts of feverish conjectures, and Wilfrid, it must be confessed, was a somewhat idle and careless apprentice all that week.

Hence it was with a beating heart and all sorts of nameless and formless expectations that Stennis presented himself in Temple court at the appointed hour one week later.

This time his reception was cordially itself, tempered with such marked respect as to be positively embarrassing to a youngster so inexperienced in the ways of the world. There was a third person present also, introduced as Mr. Phineas Carboy, the senior member of the firm.

Both partners impressively shook hands with their visitor and were quite deferential in manner. Mr. Passavant's demeanor might even be described as paternally affectionate.

Wilfrid sat on the edge of the proffered seat in some trepidation, and found himself focussed by a battery of four eyes and two pairs of eyebrows, so respectfully solicitous was the manner of his reception. Mr. Passavant led off in one of his pompously rounded periods:

"It is a pleasure to renew the acquaintance of so presentable a young gentleman as yourself, Mr. Stennis, and to be the bearers of what will, I am sure, be most grateful tidings. Not the least item in our gratification consists in the fact that you bear a most dignified and euphonious name—one eminently fitted to grace the good fortune we are about to announce: 'Wilfrid Stennis, Esquire'—ah!" He rolled out the full title in his best forensic manner, and our unsophisticated Wilfrid, who was staggered by all this unexpected homage and flattery, hardly recognized his own familiar appellation.

Here Mr. Carboy, with an impatient cough, took up the tale, as though he would say: "We have had the fancy touches and the flummery; now let's get down to business."

"The facts are briefly as follows, Mr. Stennis. This firm for many years past has numbered among its most valued clients your late lamented maternal uncle, Mr. Andrew McLean, whose reputation in the west was largely merged in the town named after him in the state of Nevada."

Wilfrid could not repress a gesture of surprise at the mention of old Andrew's name. Eunice was right, after all.

"Three months ago, Mr. Stennis, your uncle died, not very suddenly, but full of years, and childless. He was, I am happy to say for your sake, a very wealthy man. I had the honor to draw his last will and testament, in which he named Mr. Passavant and myself as co-executors. The estate will foot up at $25,000,000, partly in paying mining properties, but mainly in cash and available securities. Besides this principal, there is also a yearly income, at the present market values of silver and copper, of something like $1,000,000. Your uncle's will makes you sole legatee, and it becomes our very pleasant duty, Mr. Stennis, to congratulate you upon your good fortune. From what we can learn of you personally, I have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that this vast wealth could not have fallen into better hands."

Both partners rose to their feet at this peroration, and each grasped a hand of the dumfounded Wilfrid, who stood speechless before them, saying never a word, vainly essaying to moisten his parched lips. Then he sat down, saying piteously:

"I'm afraid I don't quite take it all in, gentlemen! You must give me time to realize the news!"

"Oh, you will soon get used to the situation, my dear sir," said the bland and beaming Passavant, with a return to his fatherly manner.

"Surely!" echoed Mr. Carboy, with a compassionate smile. "You will be one of the richest young men of the age—twenty-five millions in ready and a yearly income of a million besides!"

It was more than poor Wilfrid could comprehend at a moment's notice. With these words ringing in his ears he staggered out of the office and gained the street, there to "walk it off."

CHAPTER V.

Horatio Passavant occupied a residence on Park avenue, that dullest of New York's many dull uptown streets. The place and its furnishings, like their owner, were heavy, eminently respectable, pompous, and quite pretentious.

The household consisted of himself, his daughter, and his spinster sister—the latter tolerated chiefly because she made an admirable sheep-dog for the second, being conveniently deaf, quite colorless as to opinions, and capable of complete self-effacement upon occasion.

Clara Passavant, the daughter, was commonly accounted a handsome woman, of a pale, blonde, stately type of beauty; she was thoroughly mercenary, brilliant as an icicle and nearly as cold, heartless, vain, and ambitious. Her all-consuming aim in life was to contract a splendid marriage; in her eyes money was the indispensable requisite for human happiness; and, although she probably never shaped the thought in so many words, she would undoubtedly sell herself to the highest bidder.

Father and daughter were sitting over their dessert on the evening of the day which brought to Wilfrid the tidings of his stupendous change in fortune. The scene was far as the antipodes from the humble interior over in Macdougal street, where another and a more momentous interview was at that very moment also taking place.

"Now tell me about this Mr. Stennis of yours, papa," said Clara after the servants had retired. "Is he at all presentable?"

"Not half bad, my dear," returned the lawyer; "a trifle raw and unformed, perhaps, but under the proper tutelage I imagine he will become a very valuable adjunct to society. He is one of the richest young men in the world, remember!"

"How rich, for example?" queried Clara, absently admiring the flash and shimmer of her bracelet.

"His income from his mining properties alone is $1,000,000 a year, and there is a capital nest-egg of at least twenty-five million back of that."

"A million dollars a year," mused Clara aloud; "one could support an establishment anywhere very comfortably on that!"

Her father gave vent to an exclamation that was very like a sort of disgust. "One year of his income is more than I have amassed in all my professional life!"

"When does he come into his property?" was the beauty's next question.

"Oh, practically immediately. There are but few legal formalities to be observed."

"I should think he would feel very grateful to you," continued Clara, "for rescuing him from poverty and obscurity."

"Well, you see, my dear," said Mr. Passavant, rubbing his double chin dubiously at this characteristic feminine bit of logic, "the facts being as they were, we could hardly help finding him; there was really no trouble at all; any other firm could and would have done as well. I do not exactly perceive why he should be especially grateful on that score. No doubt the young man feels kindly towards me—have every reason to believe that he does, in point of fact."

"What has he been doing for a living all these years?"

"His vocation has been that of a bookkeeper in a large export house downtown."

"I suppose he knows nothing what ever of society, papa? He could hardly really like people among his acquaintances?"

"Highly improbable, I should say," was the rejoinder. "I was thinking Clara, that we might do the poor fellow a signal service by taking him up—introducing him in the right quarters, and all that sort of thing," with an airy wave of the hand.

"Very likely he gobbles his soup and eats with his knife! Do you suppose he ever walked through a collation in his life?" said Clara, with supercilious disdain.

"What father gave a ventral chuckle.

"Come, come, my dear, we must not be too hard on young Stennis. He has really quite passable manners, and impresses me as a man who would quickly fall into civilized ways."

"Oh, you men do that better than women anyway," commented this mature girl satirically. "Has he any drawbacks in the way of detrimental relatives—any aunts?"

"He is absolutely alone in the world, my dear. He was the only son of his mother, and she was a widow. His father was a civil engineer by profession."

"That's something in his favor," admitted the daughter of the house. "What is his full name, papa?"

"Wilfrid Stennis."

"Does he spell it with an 'f' or with an 'e'?"

"With an 'f'—W-I-L-F-R-I-D. Rather a well-sounding name—don't you think so?"

"Oh, it will do," said Clara indifferently.

"Suppose we invite him to dinner some night?" suggested Mr. Passavant at length; "just by ourselves, you know. Then you can take his measure and—er—er—form your own estimate of his possibilities."

This was precisely what the scheming Clara had been leading towards, although she knew full well that that conflict. There were also detachments of the Michigan National Guard, and hundreds of civilians from all parts of the state.

Ceremony is impressive. Otto Kirchhaer, vice chairman of the local committee, presided over the exercises, which were opened with an invocation by Rt. Rev. John S. Foley, bishop of Detroit. The report of the monument commission was read by Col. George G. Briggs, chairman, and then the sculptor, Edward C. Potter of Greenwich, Conn., made brief remarks on his work.

Mr. Custer now stepped forward, and pulling the cord of the flag which draped the statue, unveiled the figure of her husband. As Old Glory slipped man-like, her father would probably claim credit for the idea should the experiment turn out well.

"As you please, papa. Shall we say a week from next Wednesday?"

"The sooner the better, my dear. And so Wilfrid's social fate was settled."

In the privacy of her own room that night, before she slept, Clara Passavant went to her dainty escritoire and, taking pen and paper, wrote several times in a dashing, bold hand the words "Mrs. Wilfrid Stennis," scanning the sheet at arm's length. Then she tore the paper into shreds, laughed softly to herself, and proceeded to make her quite elaborate toilet for the night.

Almost at the same hour another equally interesting episode of talk was in progress amid far different surroundings, and yet the subject was almost identically the same, the actors only being different.

Broadminded Norwegians. Ecclesiastical recognition has been given the sport of skiing in Norway in the special short, early services held in all the churches during the season for the convenience of skiers. These services are called skiing prayers and a stranger coming into the sacred edifice on such an occasion might think he had blundered into the barracks of a ski corps. However, the services are much liked and very well attended, and there is no difference of opinion about the wisdom of the church authorities in thus encouraging a sport making so strongly for healthy bodies and therefore going a long way toward making healthy souls.

MEMORY OF GEN.
CUSTER HONOREDEquestrian Statue Is Unveiled in Monroe, Mich.

PRESIDENT TAFT IS PRESENT

Chief Executive Among the Speakers
—Widow of Heroic Soldier Participates in the Impressive Ceremony.

Monroe, Mich.—Fitting respect was paid by the state of Michigan on June 4 to one of her noblest sons, when a fine equestrian statue of Gen. George Armstrong Custer was unveiled in this town where that warrior spent five years of his youth, and where later he was married. The occasion was made doubly notable by the presence of President Taft, Senator William Alden Smith, Governor Warner and other distinguished men, and Mrs. Elizabeth Custer, widow of the hero, came from New York to unveil the statue.

The ceremony attracted to Monroe a throng that taxed the accommodations of the town. It included many veterans of the Civil war, especially the survivors of the Third Cavalry division which Custer commanded in duced and was given an ovation. He spoke briefly, but feelingly, of the man who was being honored, and of his incalculable services to the country and devotion to duty.

The oration of the day, delivered by Senator William Alden Smith, was next on the program. It was an eloquent and scholarly effort, and elicited enthusiastic applause. This was followed by remarks by Maj. Gen. D. McM. Gregg, commander of the Second division, Cavalry corps, Army of the Potomac, and Brig. Gen. Edward W. Whitaker, who was acting assistant inspector general and chief of staff under Custer, at the close of the war. A poem by Will Carleton, written for the occasion, came next.

Gov. Fred M. Warner made the formal presentation of the statue, the response being by Jacob Martin, mayor of Monroe, after which the band played "America."

Laurel Wreaths for the Hero. Then came one of the prettiest features of the program. William O. Lee, president of the Michigan Cavalry Brigade association, stepped forward bearing in his arms a number of laurel wreaths, and as he laid them at the base of the monument, a chorus of 75 voices sang "The Old Brigade."

The ceremonies came to an end with a benediction pronounced by Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, bishop of Michigan.

The Custer monument stands in the public square of Monroe, close to the Presbyterian church, in which the general was married. It cost $25,000, and was paid for by the state. The statue itself is of bronze, and represents the general in his well known uniform, slouch hat in hand and sharp-

Charles E. Greening. down from the figures of man and horse, a band struck up the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," and the First battery, Field Artillery, M. N. G., fired a 17 gun salute. The great crowd cheered and cheered again, and the tears trickled down the face of the aged widow of the man who had devoted his young manhood to saving his country, and had died fighting its savage enemies on the Little Big Horn.

Taft and Smith Speak. When the tumult had subsided, President William H. Taft was introduced and was given an ovation. He spoke briefly, but feelingly, of the man who was being honored, and of his incalculable services to the country and devotion to duty.

WOMAN
ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my side, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."

Mrs. S. M. Mullen, 228 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periods pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

News From The Capital

"Bat" Nelson and "Uncle Joe" in Bout

WASHINGTON.—Bat Nelson, ex-lightweight champion of the world, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon, who is something of a scrapper himself, sparred a round in the speaker's private office recently. It wasn't such a tango as that, although largely conversational.

Nelson and his manager appeared before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce to oppose the bill introduced by Representative Walter I. Smith of Iowa to prohibit the exhibition of moving pictures by newspapers of the details of pugilistic encounters. After Nelson had spoken his piece he left the committee room and was hurrying down the corridor toward the exit when Representative Wagner of Pennsylvania came chasing after him.

"Hey, Nelson," he cried, "the speaker wants to see you."

"You're on," said Nelson, and he made tracks for the speaker's office. He got a warm greeting. Uncle Joe shook his hands, felt his biceps and slapped him on the back. The examination was returned with interest. "Say," said Nelson to Mr. Cannon, as he ran his hands over the speaker's arms and shoulders and sized up his height, "I thought you were a big man, but you're only a little fellow."

Some of the group surrounding the two informed the fighter that the speaker took his daily exercise and always kept himself fit.

"I knew he was there on the training," replied Nelson; "you can't fool me about telling when a boy is in shape."

"Uncle Joe" grinned and put up his hands in approved style. He made a few swift passes at the "Battler."

"Philadelphia Jack O'Brien showed me how to do this," he said as Nelson backed away laughingly.

"If you had begun boxing a few years ago, Mr. Cannon," said Nelson, "you would have made a better boxer than a speaker—and you certainly are some speaker."

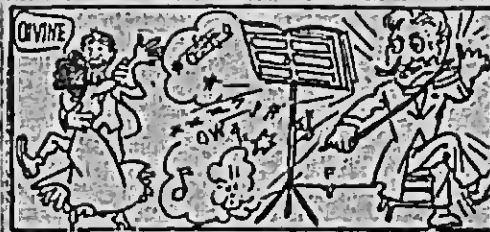

"Why," cried Uncle Joe, "that's what I call a mighty pretty compliment."

"Gee," said Nelson, "I'm much obliged for your map, Mr. Cannon; but I never took a smoke or a drink in my life."

"I'm happy," replied Mr. Cannon, gravely, as he bit the end off a perfect, "that I cannot say the same."

Stood High as a Third Class Fiddler

THIS story has been floating around the house in Washington. Nobody offers to fiddle it.

There was once a fiddler who was very precise in his statements. He wasn't much of a fiddler, and he knew it. It was not in his nature to claim talent which he did not possess. One night there was a dance. The committee couldn't get the regular music. So they appealed to this fiddler. He said the sure would play for them.

"Are you a first-class fiddler?" they asked him.

"No," he admitted.

"Are you a second-class fiddler?"

"Well, no, I'm not even a second-class fiddler."

"Well, for gracious sakes, what are you, then? Are you a fiddler at all?"

"I'm not a first-class fiddler," said the honest musician. "I'm not a second-class fiddler either. But I stand darned high in the third class!"

They took him on.

Longworth Disapproves of Imitations

REPRESENTATIVE LONGWORTH is chairman of the committee which is investigating the Merchant Marine league of Cleveland, and the foreign shipping trust, when Olcott, the regular chairman, is absent. Longworth was in the chair recently and James L. Uhl of New York was the witness. Uhl was telling of an attempt he had made to trace a certain letter to its source. He had to visit foreign steamship agents. He gave imitations on the stand of how these agents talked. Longworth's face began to flush, because Longworth doesn't like exhibitions of this sort.

"Oh," Longworth murmured, "I think we have had enough of that." The murmur was loud enough to reach the witness.

"I'll apologize," he said. "But when I was a boy I had a faculty for giving imitations, and my father was never able to break me of the habit."

Human in Glass Cage to Test Foods

TO DETERMINE whether roast beef produces more energy in the human body than cabbage, whether baked beans in this respect surpass potatoes, and so on through a long list of foods, the department of agriculture is conducting a series of novel experiments in Washington. The instrumentality being employed is a machine known as a calorimeter, and a human being who submits to the "torture" of being fed and sitting in a glass cage while the food energy is recorded.

Around the inside of the calorimeter, which is a glass, air-tight compartment about the size of a small steamer stateroom, runs a system of pipes filled with cold water. The temperature of the water is carefully noted, the heat generated by the body in the process of assimilating the food causing the water to become warmer.

Only one kind of food is given to the subject at a time. One experiment requires several hours, according to the time required to digest the food.

The experiments so far have been to determine the relative heat-producing energy of fatty and starchy foods. Several months will be spent in making the tests.

ILLINOIS COAL WAR IS ON

MINE GUARDS ARE OUT; INDUSTRY IN PERIL.

Battle Begins When Strike Leaders Order Engineers and Pumpmen to Quit Their Work.

Chicago. — War which threatens the life of the coal industry in Illinois was declared between the operators and miners Thursday.

Refusing the terms accepted by the miners in other states, leaders of the Illinois strike ordered out engineers and pumpmen who had been left at work to guard against destruction of property during the suspension.

Millions of dollars are involved in the latest strike order, as many of the properties are known as "wet" mines, and they will be irretrievably damaged unless the pumps are kept running. The "dry" mines also will be greatly damaged when the supply of fresh air is shut off.

In fact of the warlike move of the miners the operators decided to stand firm, and their position was indorsed at a special meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' association held at the Hotel LaSalle. Though the suspension is costing the manufacturers in Illinois at the rate of $20,000,000 a year extra for fuel, they decided unanimously to stand by the operators to the last ditch in the struggle.

Federal intervention may be asked by the manufacturers, and it was intimated that President Taft may be urged to do as President Roosevelt did in the anthracite coal strike in 1902, when he forced the operators and miners to submit to arbitration.

FOREIGNERS ARE IN DANGER

City of Nanking Placarded With Posters Inciting Natives to Murder and Riot.

Washington.—The resurrected Boxers of China are again hawking for the blood of the "foreign devils."

The outbreak at Nanking is such as to demand the immediate attention of the state department, the navy, and perhaps a part of the army from the Philippines.

Minister Calhoun has made a good record at the state department by his alertness in this emergency. He cabled promptly some weeks ago disturbing news he got by way of Canton. Mr. Calhoun did not wait for authorization but exercised his discretion to ask the commander of the Asiatic squadron to send a vessel to Chinese waters. The New Orleans is now at Nanking.

Minister Calhoun has advised the state department again of the seriousness of the circumstances. It is manifest from what he sends that the insults of the new Boxers of China are intended conspicuously for the people of the United States. This is demonstrated by the unprintable things done against the United States consulate at Nanking by the Chinese who are howling for the blood of the "foreign devils."

In his cablegram Minister Calhoun says that the city of Nanking has been placarded with posters inciting the people to slaughter the foreigners and destroy their property, in consequence of which, considerable nervousness is felt.

GOTCH DEFEATS THE POLE

Iowa Wrestler Throws Zhyzsko Twice and Retains Title of World's Champion.

Chicago.—Frank Gotch, champion of all champions at the wrestling game, made Zhyzsko, his Polish challenger for the mat crown, look like a tyro at the game of grapple at the Coliseum last night by easily throwing the European twice inside of a half hour.

Gotch threw the gigantic Galician with the most ridiculous ease in the first bout in 6 1/2 seconds.

Frank rushed out of his corner when time was called and upset the Pole with that great American school-boy hold, i. e., diving for the legs.

In the second bout Gotch allowed the Pole to get behind him once or twice, but Frank was never within comet distance of danger and toyed with the Pole.

RAIL MEN PLAN FOR DEFENSE

Presidents and Traffic Managers Meet in Chicago and Discuss Situation in Secret.

Chicago.—Like the old guard at Waterloo, which could die, but could not surrender, presidents and traffic managers of railroads centering in Chicago Thursday formed in hollow square in arms against a sea of troubles.

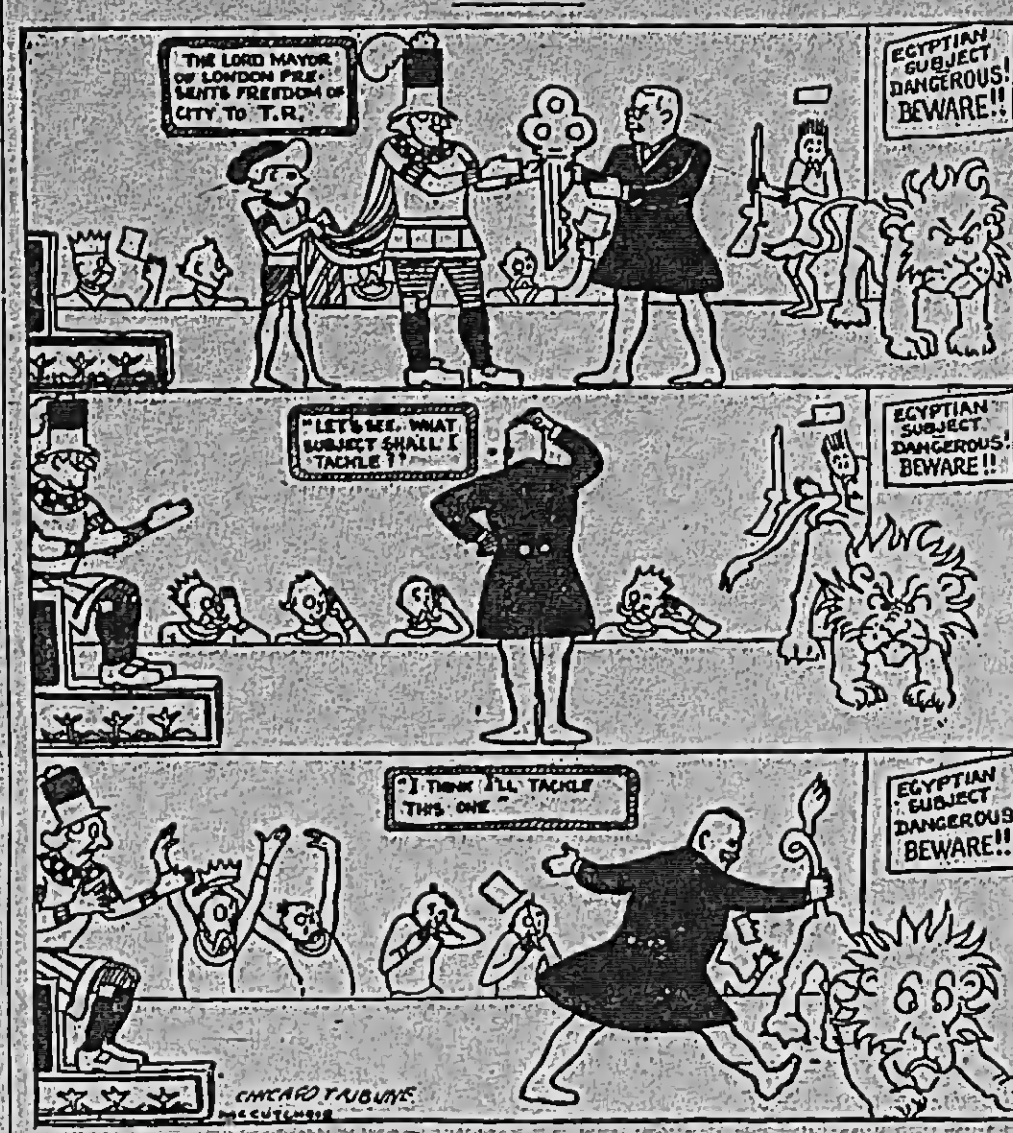

E. P. Ripley, president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe system, took the initiative in calling the meeting. It was held to discuss a defense against the assault of the government on the recently enjoined advance in freight rates in western trunk line territory.

They decided to go to Washington for a conference with the president, who has agreed to hear them.

Americans Drown in India. Bombay.—Miss W. Williams and Howard Bishop, missionaries of the American Baptist society, were drowned Saturday while sea bathing in the Gulf of Cambay at Bulsar, north of this city.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT STIRS UP THE EGYPTIAN SUBJECT IN LONDON

WILL TREAT PITTMAN FAIRLY

NO COURT-MARTIAL BEEN ORDERED FOR AMERICAN.

Madrid Assures State Department Captured Engineer Will Not Be Peremptorily Dealt With.

Cambridge, Mass. — Edwin F. Pittman of this city, brother of William P. Pittman, the American engineer who is alleged to have laid mines while operating with Estrada's insurgents and to have been captured by the government forces, received assurances from Washington that his brother will not be peremptorily dealt with by the Madrid forces. A telegram from Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson was received by Pittman. This wire was in answer to the latter's appeal to Senator Lodge to protect his brother's interests as a citizen of the United States.

The message read: "In response to inquiries made prior to the receipt of your telegram I am happy to inform you that the department has just received from the consul at Managua a telegram of which the following is the paraphrase: 'Your telegram of June 4 received. Dr. Madrid has assured me through General Toledo that a court-martial has not been thought of, much less ordered, and has further assured me that Pittman will be treated fairly and considerately and that telegraphic instructions to that effect will be immediately dispatched to General Irias at Oroytown.'"

Pittman was born here twenty-two years ago. He always had a longing for adventure and when sixteen years old he ran away from home.

NORTON IS TAFT'S SECRETARY

President Officially Announces Appointment of Chicago Man to Take Carpenter's Place.

Washington. — President Taft Wednesday officially announced the appointment of Charles Dyer Norton of Chicago as secretary to the president to succeed Fred W. Carpenter. Also the acceptance of the place by Mr. Norton was announced.

Just when the new secretary will assume his new duties has not been finally settled, but probably when the president gets back from his western trip Monday morning.

RATE BILL PASSES SENATE

Administration Measure Is Adopted 50 to 12—Democrats Cast Only Negative Votes.

Washington.—The administration's railroad bill was passed by the senate Friday night by a vote of 50 to 12. The negative votes were cast by Democrats as follows: Bacon, Fletcher, Frazier, Hughes, Mooney, Newlands, Percy, Purcell, Rayner, Shively, Smith of Maryland and Smith of South Carolina.

Compromise Is Effected. Detroit, Mich.—The threatened tie-up of the Detroit United Railway company's city lines was definitely averted when the company's motormen and conductors, who have been seeking a flat wage scale of 30 cents per hour, voted to accept a compromise offered by the company.

10,000 Secure Wage Increase. Boston.—More than 10,000 men in various trades in this city secured the wage increases for which they had threatened to strike.

Savings Bank Is Closed. Kalamazoo, Mich.—The Citizens' State Savings bank of Plainwell, Mich., was closed by State Bank Examiner Zimmerman Saturday. A. T. Shepard, cashier, is charged with having invested $38,000 in Texas lands without approval of the directors.

Carrie Chapman Catt Ill. New York.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Woman Suffrage association, is seriously ill in a private sanitarium here following a serious operation.

ROOSEVELT TALK IS PLAYED

English Editors Severely Criticize American's Speech at Guildhall—Challenge Its Propriety.

London.—Government officials and members of the English cabinet are convinced that Col. Theodore Roosevelt's speech at Guildhall, in which he rebuked England's administration of affairs in Egypt, will greatly increase the difficulty of dealing with the delicate political situation that confronts England and Egypt.

Owing to the semi-official character of Roosevelt's visit by reason of his appointment to represent the United States at the funeral of King Edward, officialdom will make no comment for publication regarding the speech. But nothing could be plainer than that the leading politicians fear that Roosevelt's bold utterances will act as a fuse that will yet touch off an upheaval in Anglo-Egyptian relations.

Newspaper criticisms of Roosevelt increased in severity Wednesday. Outside the questions of fact set forth the newspapers almost without exception challenge the propriety of a foreign guest of the city criticizing the colonial policy of the empire.

Mr. Roosevelt denounced the Nationalist party of Egypt as neither desirous nor capable of guaranteeing primary justice, but as trying to bring murderous chaos upon the land. Some nation, said the former president, must govern Egypt, and he hoped and believed the English would decide that the duty was theirs.

TAFT TALKS ON SOCIALISM

President Declares Question Is One of Greatest Problems Confronting the Nation.

Washington.—President Taft reached home from his western trip late Sunday night. The trip from Jackson, Mich., was without special incident.

At Jackson the president delivered a speech at the unveiling of a bronze tablet in commemoration of the birth of the Republican party "under the oaks in 1854."

He proclaimed socialism as the greatest problem that confronts the American people, the issue that is soon to come and that must be skillfully met. While declaring that it was not his purpose to make a political speech there were many of his hearers who constructed his remarks as the framework of a possible issue for the next presidential campaign.

Mr. Taft also declared that popular government must be a government of parties, and in this connection there was a passing hint at insolvency. The president declared that unless individuals are willing to sink minor considerations to the will of the majority in a party, there would come a rule by groups.

Say Count Is a Murderer. St. Petersburg.—A sensation has been caused by the arrest of Count Lyassy and Doctor Patschenko on suspicion of poisoning Count Bonturil, officer of the Imperial guards, who recently died suddenly. Count Bonturil was heir to a fortune of $3,600,000. Count Lyassy was his brother-in-law, and he is accused of having bribed Doctor Patschenko to administer strychnine.

Plunges Into Niagara Falls. Niagara Falls, N. Y.—A man apparently about 45 years old plunged to death from Prospect Point. Posing a moment, balanced on the guard fence, he threw himself forward just as a tourist approached.

May Operate on W. H. Ellis. Columbus, O.—Wade H. Ellis, chairman of the Republican state committee, who is confined to his bed at a hotel here with acute indigestion, was somewhat better Friday. His doctor said there were indications of gall stones, and that an operation may be necessary.

Peru to Withdraw Its Army. Washington.—The government of Peru Friday indicated its purpose to withdraw its army from the Ecuadorian frontier.

FISH MAN SQUEALS

HENRY LEMM CONFESSES HIS CONNECTION WITH LEGISLATIVE BRIBE FUND.

INVOLVES TWO OTHER MEN

Declares Has Known for Twenty Years That Illinois Legislators Have "Held Up" Fishermen—Gives Prosecutor Documentary Evidence.

Peoria, Ill.—Henry Lemm of Pekin, Ill., a wealthy fish dealer, Friday night confessed to State's Attorney Burke of Sangamon county all of the details pertaining to the raising of the $3,500 fund alleged to have been used to corrupt Illinois legislators at Springfield.

He named John Dixon of Peoria, another wealthy fish dealer, as the man who raised the fund, and in corroboration of his statements turned over to Burke the check he had drawn to Dixon, as well as letters regarding the transaction between himself and his bookkeeper, Ralph O. Lord.

Perhaps the most important document which fell into Burke's hands was a copy of a letter written by Lord to his employer Lemm, when Dixon came around to collect the corruption money. Lemm was sick at the time and his doctor had ordered him to Hot Springs, Ark. This is how Lord explained giving the $300 to Dixon in a letter written May 17, the day on which the check was drawn.

Lemm broke down and confessed everything he knew in connection with the affair, saying that for at least twenty years to his knowledge it had been the practice of the Springfield legislators to regularly "hold up" the fishermen. He said he was beginning to get tired of it, but that he had been warned not to tell.

State's Attorney Burke and Deputy Sheriff Henry Bogardus slipped quietly out of Springfield and they got off the train at Pekin, where they met Lemm at the Tazewell hotel.

"JACK-POT" COLLECTOR FOUND

Frank J. Traut Tells Prosecutor He Was Treasurer of Fish Bill Slush Fund.

Beardstown, Ill.—Frank J. Traut, ice and fish dealer of this place, was the treasurer of the fish merchants' "jack-pot" of $2,500 contributed for the defeat of the fish bill in the last general assembly. He collected money himself, received $1,250 from John Dixon of Peoria and other sums from other collectors.

This information was obtained by State's Attorney Burke of Springfield after a flying trip here Saturday night. He talked with Traut for more than an hour and seemed well pleased with the results of his visit.

Mr. Traut not only admitted having handled the fund, but also acknowledged that he spent the night before the adjournment of the legislature with A. M. Foster, chairman of the house committee on game and fish. This committee had charge of the bill.

What became of the money is the mystery which Prosecutor Burke is trying to solve.

The gaining of the acknowledgment from Traut that he received the money collected by Dixon of Peoria confirms the latter's testimony. Dixon asserted that he took the money to Springfield, inclosed in a piece of brown paper, used ordinarily for wrapping fish, and gave the $1,250 to Mr. Traut.

The latter said to State's Attorney Burke that he collected considerable more. The exact amount has not been made public. Mr. Traut gave the names, addresses and business connections of the contributors to the Sangamon prosecutor.

TELLS OF "JACK-POT" FUND

Beckemeyer Discloses to Grand Jury Names of Legislators Not Mentioned Heretofore.

Springfield, Ill.—Representative H. J. Beckemeyer, Carlyle, Ill., disclosed before the Sangamon county grand jury Friday the innermost secrets of the combine which defeated the "fish bill." He told names, dates and places heretofore carefully guarded.

Beckemeyer also established the existence of the alleged legislative "jack-pot" corruption fund. He said that such a fund was in existence during the preceding session of the legislature and that it was a matter of tradition. Beckemeyer, who made confession No. 2 before the special grand jury in Cook county, was in the grand jury room less than an hour.

Beckemeyer told how he was paid $900 in St. Louis as his share of the "jack-pot" dividend and is said to have named other legislators as having been in St. Louis at the time whose names have not been made public in either Cook county or Springfield.

Rushing Train Kills Three

Dayton, O.—Rushing at high speed to make up time, a Big Four passenger train crashed into a market wagon at the Findlay street grade crossing Saturday and H. E. Combs, farmer, his daughter and son were killed.

Fire Destroys Steamer

San Francisco.—The City of San Rafael, a freight boat, plying between this city and San Rafael, was burned to the water's edge in the bay of Alcatraz island Saturday.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS.
ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS.

A REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
A. D. JOHNSON, Editor and Proprietor

By Mail, One Dollar per Year, in Advance

Telephone, Antioch No. 581.

THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1910

No new county candidates have been entered during the last week. Observant ones lay this up to the cold spell.

The railroad bill has finally passed the senate in Washington but the rates to Rockefeller haven't yet bulged an inch.

County Treasurer Ames is doing business with a moving van in Waukegan. It isn't cheaper to move than pay rent or rather taxes in this case.

The fish bill they are after at the state capital is not the one Stearns introduced in the last session. That makes his skirts clear of a hold up, anyway.

That Antioch man who is so eminently qualified for the position of county superintendent of schools—why doesn't he give us the word that he is in the race?

The railroad presidents are hurrying to Washington to see Taft. From all indications they will hurry back as fast as they went. That injunction has got to stick.

Gov. Gillette of California says the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight is going to be a fake. We wonder what dope the President of the United States has got on the subject.

Oven in Wisconsin they are getting up a fight against La Follette. Just as if that wasn't the regular thing. La Follette without a fight would be like Hamlet without Hamlet.

Where is Roger Sullivan these days? No Democrat who has gone to poverty for his honest convictions should be allowed to escape. Is the Fenian end of the Tribune sleeping on its job?

Kohlsaat of the Record-Herald announces that he cannot now take a stand for Senator Lorimer. Great bakeries when ever in the history of events did Kohlsaat take a stand for Lorimer.

We are now getting fish stories from Springfield. That ought to be easy for everybody concerned but it doesn't explain to us who is seining our own lakes here in Antioch township clear of fish.

Mayor Buss of Chicago is now declaring that his father voted for Abraham Lincoln. That ought to settle it. The Peabody cool is the best that ever was shoved under a boiler—at least a city boiler.

Waukegan forever after is to be known as the "Wire City." We guess there won't be much trouble over there teaching its politicians how to pull the wires. They knew that long before the manufacturers made the product.

Mr. Holstlaw of Iuka certainly wasn't forced on every hand by "the dear ones at home" when he took the $2500 he talked about. He is rated in Dun and Bradstreet at a hundred thousand. The Waukegan Gazette please copy.

Our Congressman Foss' brother Eugene down in Massachusetts is going to run for the senate hoping to oust Lodge. Eugene ought to be able to get a few hunches from George Edmond on a thing of this kind that might be worth while.

Kenosha has again got into the papers. A member of one of its prominent families was held at the custom house in New York for smuggling $3500 in jewels. Just the same that rings more in the social columns than a bank robber.

They say that Foss "was" but "isn't" now. That means the senatorship doesn't look good to him any longer. Some people who are friends of Deneen are advising the governor to add another barb wire to the top of the fence around the executive mansion.

A constable in Waukegan seems to be up against a live one. He closed out a liquor store on a writ and sold the whiskey at public auction to the highest bidder. He did this without any license, city or government. Now the question is what will they do with him, hang him or merely draw and quarter him. Anyway as a legal question, it is a nice one.

The indignation of Gov. Deneen over the condition he suddenly discovers in state politics is most pitiable to behold. The agony that is gripping his vitals causes even strong men in the audience to weep at his sufferings. But let's see, wasn't Deneen right there on the ground while all this was supposed to be going on? And he went there from Chicago, too. Slower music, please.

Affairs of a Neighbor

Things are lively over in the congressional district of which McHenry is a member.

G. W. Conn of Woodstock is doing things. He is no less than going after the scalp of Congressman Howard M. Snapp of Joliet and from the present forecast it looks as if he was going to get it.

Mr. Conn is at present the efficient and resourceful county superintendent of schools of McHenry county. He has done much to popularize himself and particularly with the farming element. His introduction of special conditions in the schools for their benefit has been much appreciated.

But while his own record alone would make him a formidable candidate the fact that he has back of him Speaker Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo and Ira Copley of Aurora makes the proposition look like a cinch.

With these two strong men pushing his fortunes Mr. Conn seems to have got the lion and the lamb together for Copley is a strong supporter of Gov. Deneen.

From our view of the 11th district we don't see where Snapp gets off at, or more correctly, on again. Snapp never did cut much figure as a statesman. Nobody ever heard him make an audible noise in Washington and nobody in Will county ever knew of his doing more than checking up the polling sheets of the foreign vote in the steel mills of Joliet. It must be acknowledged he was a hammer at that. He knew what it cost to bring an Anton Lzespzcbaka over the line, every time.

Conn is a very different kind of a hairpin. He will not put up his time with polling sheets at Woodstock if selected to go to Washington. He will go to Washington and make himself count just as he is making himself count in the audacious platform campaign he is giving the people of the 11th district right now.

Conn comes from the people and knows what the people want. Snapp is residuum from Ex-Senator Hopkins' regime and while that gentleman was it, Snapp had a soft—we refuse to pun on his name—had a soft thing, but those days seem to be over and now he has got to go back to the people—the people that Conn came from.

There you are. Do you really think Snapp has got a—show?

Last Sunday afternoon a goodly number of the Woodmen and Royal Neighbors observed memorial day by gathering at the Woodman hall in the afternoon and then proceeded to the cemetery to pay their respects to the memory of their departed members by decorating their graves with flowers and emblems.

Young & Company Monday began the audit of the books of County Treasurer Ames and will audit all of the books of county officers. It develops that the supervisors at their meeting Saturday left things just as they were before the special meeting. After the treasurer's office the county clerk and the remaining county officers will be audited.

A large number from here attended the Woodman picnic at Kenosha on Wednesday. Among the number were, Eldora Horton, Wm. Horton, C. Beuthling, John Hodge, F. Rogan, J. Britton, A. Paasch, Wm. Hook, and Mrs. G. Schilke, and S. LaPlant. All report a fine time but state that the crowd was so large that a comparatively small number were enabled to hear the speeches or witness the drills.

The following article clipped from a Decorah paper of last week's issue may be of interest to many of our older readers. "A company of about thirty-five relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Marsh last Friday to help them celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. After dinner had been disposed of the guests spent a very happy afternoon in visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh were married May 20, 1860 at Fox Lake, Ill. and came to Decorah, on March 18, 1861. All intervening years have been spent here and they have taken an active interest in all that pertained to the business, social and religious welfare of the city. They have six children, all living, W. C. Marsh of San Francisco, Mrs. E. J. Weiser and Miss Marjory Marsh of Fargo, Miss Susie Marsh of St. Paul, Miss Jo Louise Marsh and Mrs. H. S. Scammon of Mason city, all of whom were present with the exception of the first named." The Marsh family was among the best known residents of the vicinity of Antioch in the early sixties.

Marvelous Discoveries

mark the wonderful progress of the age. Air flights on heavy machines, telegram without wires, terrible war inventions to kill men, and that wonder of wonders Dr. King's New-Discovery—to save life when threatened by coughs, colds, la-grippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis, hemorrhages, hay fever, and whooping cough or lung trouble. For all bronchial affections it has no equal. It relieves instantly. Its surest cure. James M. Black of Asheville, N. C., R. R. No. 4, writes it cured him of an obstinate cough after all other remedies failed. 50c. and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by J. H. Swan.

The Successor Man.

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction.—A. Stanley.

committee of twenty-four meet at some central place and be ready to take up the subject with our committee and furnish us such evidence into all of the local situations as to producing milk as has a bearing upon the subject, and that will form a committee that can confer together and be ready to recommend legislation to the next legislature and cooperate fully with our committee appointed by the state—which I trust the Chicago committee will also do.

I might also add that the Health Department of the city of Chicago now contends that the tuberculin testing of cows is simply a matter that pertains to the economy of the herds and that pasteurization is the more important question in the milk supply.

Would you kindly cooperate and advise me as to this suggestion?

Likely it would be agreeable for the counties of Kane and Will to appoint five instead of three.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

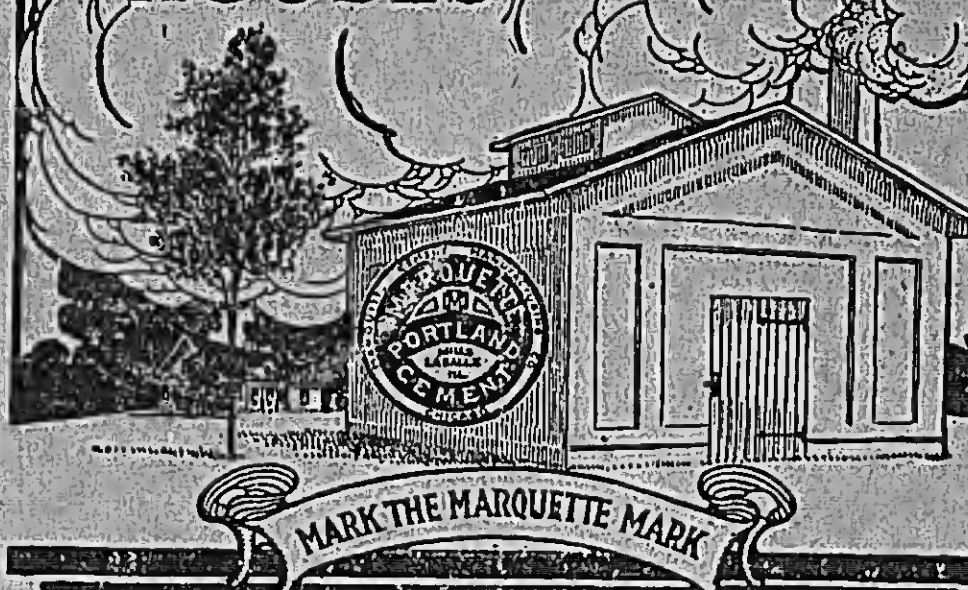

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
